To Whom It May Concern:

I would like to recommend Joanne Quinn for the position of Joanne and I worked on an NLP research project together for a course we took as part of Montclair State University's applied linguistics master's program (one of several we took together). As part of the project we conceptualized a text classification problem, collected data, wrote code for calculating features, and conducted machine learning experiments. It was a successful class project that we learned a lot from and we were able to publish and present the work at IJCNLP 2013.

Joanne is a very motivated and bright person. She is friendly, humble, enthusiastic about NLP, able to work independently, and is eager to learn new things. I believe that she can succeed at , much like I have succeeded myself. We both were learning similar things at the same time and at the same rate and I believe that she could enjoy the same sort of path as mine. Furthermore, I know that she would be interested and enthusiastic about the types of work being done etc.

Sincerely,
